Rockpool Crabs · Questions 1–6

Rockpool Crabs

Rockpool crabs live in shallow pools beside the sea. They are well suited to this place, but they still need food, water and shelter to survive. Conditions can change across the day and through the seasons, so safe resting places are important.

Their hard shells and strong claws help them stay safe between tides. This adaptation makes everyday tasks easier and can also help them avoid danger. Young animals learn where to feed and shelter by following adults or responding to their surroundings.

They feed on algae and tiny animals. As they move through their habitat, they also become part of a larger food web that connects plants and animals. Changes to one part of this web can affect many other living things.

One challenge is plastic litter. People can help by taking rubbish home, observing wildlife from a distance and leaving natural shelters undisturbed. Small, repeated actions can protect the habitat without preventing people from learning about it.

- 1 In a bush nursery activity, what is the main purpose of Rockpool Crabs?

A to explain how rockpool crabs live and survive
B to tell a fantasy story about rockpool crabs
C to give instructions for catching rockpool crabs

The Map in the Music Case · Questions 13–18

The Map in the Music Case

Mia was helping to tidy the rehearsal room when mia noticed a folded map. It looked ordinary at first, but a tiny mark on its side seemed freshly scratched. Dust lay everywhere except beneath the object, as though it had recently been moved.

As soon as Mia picked it up, the map showed a room that was not on the school plan. Mia hesitated. The discovery was exciting, yet it might belong to someone else or be too delicate to handle alone. A hurried choice could damage both the object and the clues around it.

Instead of rushing ahead, Mia compared the drawing with the corridor windows. Each new clue matched something already visible in the rehearsal room, so the search became careful rather than wild. Mia paused after every step to record what had changed.

At last, a narrow cupboard held instruments from the first school band. Mia wrote a short note explaining where the object had been found and what had happened. The note included the order of the clues so another person could check the discovery.

By the end of the afternoon, the discovery had become part of the place's story. Mia was proud, not because the object was valuable, but because patience and careful thinking had protected it. The adults agreed that the object should stay with a clear label for future visitors.

- 13 A bush nursery card asks: why did Mia hesitate in The Map in the Music Case?

A the object might belong to someone or be delicate
B the location was already closed
C the object was too heavy to see
