Mountain Pygmy Possums · Questions 1–6

Mountain Pygmy Possums

Mountain pygmy possums live in rocky alpine slopes. They are well suited to this place, but they still need food, water and shelter to survive. Conditions can change across the day and through the seasons, so safe resting places are important.

Features such as thick fur and gripping feet help them move among cold rocks. These adaptations make everyday tasks easier and can also help them avoid danger. Young organisms survive best when their surroundings provide suitable food or nutrients and shelter.

They obtain what they need from seeds, fruit and insects. As they live and grow in their habitat, they also become part of a larger food web that connects plants and animals. Changes to one part of this web can affect many other living things.

One challenge is warmer winters. People can help by protecting alpine habitat, observing living things responsibly and leaving natural shelters undisturbed. Small, repeated actions can protect the habitat without preventing people from learning about it.

- 1 For today's wildlife clinic task, what is the main purpose of Mountain Pygmy Possums?

A to give instructions for catching mountain pygmy possums
B to advertise a wildlife toy
C to explain how mountain pygmy possums live and survive
D to tell a fantasy story about mountain pygmy possums

The Tiny Door in the Fence · Questions 13–18

The Tiny Door in the Fence

Ruby was helping near the botanic garden when Ruby noticed a painted key. It looked ordinary at first, but one detail seemed new. Ruby looked around for clues before touching or moving anything.

As Ruby examined it more closely, a tiny door appeared between two fence posts. Ruby hesitated. The discovery was exciting, yet it might belong to someone else or be too delicate to handle alone. A hurried choice could damage both the object and the clues around it.

Instead of rushing ahead, Ruby used the key only after asking the gardener. Each new clue matched something already visible in the botanic garden, so the search became careful rather than wild. Ruby paused after every step to record what had changed.

At last, the door opened onto a model garden built by children long ago. Ruby wrote a short note explaining where the object had been found and what had happened. The note included the order of the clues so another person could check the discovery.

By the end of the afternoon, the discovery had become part of the place's story. Ruby was proud, not because the object was valuable, but because patience and careful thinking had protected it. The adults agreed that the object should stay with a clear label for future visitors.

- 13 The wildlife clinic notice asks: why did Ruby hesitate in The Tiny Door in the Fence?

A the object was too heavy to see
B the clues had all disappeared
C the object might belong to someone or be delicate
D the location was already closed

- 14 While preparing the animal-care roster, what does hesitated mean in The Tiny Door in the Fence?

A forgot the discovery

D ran away immediately

- 15 A wildlife clinic challenge asks: what did Ruby find at the beginning of The Tiny Door in the Fence?

A a painted key
B a new school bag
C a box of fresh food
D a broken sports trophy

- 16 To check the animal-care roster, why was Ruby's careful action important in The Tiny Door in the Fence?

A it made the object disappear
B it stopped anyone learning the result
C it changed the location into a shop
D it protected the object and used the clues safely

- 17 At the wildlife clinic, decide: what changes by the end of The Tiny Door in the Fence?

A the character throws the object away
B all records of the discovery are removed
C the discovery becomes part of the place's known story
D the location is permanently closed

- 18 The animal-care roster question is: which idea is most important in The Tiny Door in the Fence?

A Clues are useful only when found quickly.
B Patience and careful thinking can protect a discovery.
C Valuable objects should always be hidden.
D Every old place is unsafe to visit.

Conventions of Language · L1–L25

L1 · D — an

Use an before the vowel sound at the start of octopus.

L2 · C — carried

Carried names the action Grace performed, so it is the verb.

L3 · B — carried

Last week shows the action happened in the past, so carried is correct.

L4 · A — gently

Gently describes how the team completed the action.

L5 · D — Ruby and I prepared the bandages.

The subject pronoun I is correct because the speaker is part of the subject.

L6 · C — because

Because introduces the reason for working that way.

L7 · B — theirs

Theirs shows that the item belongs to the two named people.

L8 · A — The parrots move towards the shelter.

The plural subject parrots agrees with the verb move.

L9 · D — vegetables

All three examples are vegetables.

L10 · C — .

A calm command is a complete sentence and can end with a full stop.

L11 · B — hasn't

The apostrophe in hasn't marks letters omitted from has not.

L12 · A — As the visitors arrived, we arranged the bandages.

A comma separates the introductory clause from the main clause.

L13 · D — Where should we store the bandages after the animal-care roster

The correct option asks a direct question, so it needs a question mark.

L14 · C — “The bandages are ready!” called Grace.

The spoken words and exclamation mark stay inside the speech marks.

L15 · B — On Monday, Ruby visited Adelaide.

The sentence begins with a capital, and Monday, Ruby and Adelaide are proper nouns.

L16 · A — parrot's

The singular possessive form parrot's shows ownership.

L17 · D — Their

Their shows that the items belong to a group.

L18 · C — The clean bandage was placed beside the wildlife clinic.

The correct option has a subject, a verb and a complete idea.

L19 · B — They

They replaces two named people.

L20 · A — is

The main subject box is singular, so is is correct.

L21 · D — Once finished, return the bandages.

A comma follows the introductory clause.

L22 · C — visitors'

The lunchboxes belong to more than one member of the group; the possessive form is visitors'.

L23 · B — When will the animal-care roster begin at the wildlife clinic

The correct option directly asks for information.

L24 · A — “Bring the bandages, please,” called Ruby.

The comma stays inside the closing speech mark before the reporting clause.

L25 · D — Neither of the bandages is clean.

The singular subject neither agrees with is.
