Mangroves at Work · Questions 1–6

Mangroves at Work

Along warm parts of the Australian coast, mangrove trees grow where the land meets the sea. Twice each day, the tide moves salty water around their trunks. Many mangroves have tangled roots that rise above the mud instead of staying hidden underground.

The roots act like a wide net. They slow moving water and trap small pieces of sand and mud. This can help the shore keep more soil when waves or storms arrive. The roots also collect fallen leaves, which slowly break down and add nutrients to the wet ground.

Small fish and crabs hide among the roots. They find shelter from larger animals and from strong water. Birds visit the branches to rest or search for food. In this way, one group of trees can support many different living things.

Mangroves can survive conditions that would harm many other trees, but they still need care. Rubbish can become caught in their roots, and paths made through soft mud can damage young plants. People who visit mangrove areas can help by staying on marked tracks and taking their rubbish home.

1 What is the main purpose of this text?

- A to explain how mangroves help shores and animals
B to tell a funny story about a crab
C to give instructions for planting a garden
D to compare four kinds of birds

4 Which shoreline would probably lose less soil in a storm?

- A one with healthy mangrove roots
B one covered only by loose rubbish
C one where all plants were removed
D one with a deep path through the mud

2 In paragraph 3, what does shelter mean?

- A a safe place
B a loud warning
C a kind of food
D a long journey

5 In paragraph 3, who does They refer to?

- A the roots
B small fish and crabs
C larger animals
D the branches

3 How can mangrove roots help the shore during rough weather?

- A They make the tide arrive earlier.
B They slow water and help trap soil.
C They turn salt water into fresh water.
D They move birds away from the coast.

6 Which heading would best suit paragraph 3?

- A A Home Among the Roots
B How to Measure a Tide
C The Tallest Trees
D Walking Through Mud

Make a Simple Sun Clock · Questions 7–12

Make a Simple Sun Clock

A sun clock uses the changing position of a shadow to show how the day is passing.

Materials

- a paper plate
- a pencil
- a small ball of reusable adhesive
- a ruler and marker
- a watch or clock
- a sunny outdoor place

Steps

1. Choose a flat place that will stay sunny for several hours.
2. Press the adhesive into the centre of the plate. Stand the pencil upright in it.
3. At exactly 9 am, place the plate in your chosen spot. Draw a short line where the pencil's shadow ends and label it 9 am.
4. Leave the plate fixed in the same position. Return every hour to mark and label the new end of the shadow.
5. On another sunny day, place the plate in the same position. Compare the pencil's shadow with your labels to estimate the time.

7 What is the purpose of this procedure?

- A to make a tool that estimates time using a shadow
B to test which pencil writes darkest
C to measure the amount of rain
D to decorate a plate for a party

10 What does fixed mean in step 4?

- A repaired B decorated
C not moved D made smaller

8 What should be done immediately after choosing a sunny place?

- A Label the shadow 9 am. B Stand the pencil in adhesive at the plate's centre.
C Return one hour later. D Compare the shadow on another day.

11 Why would this activity be difficult on a very cloudy day?

- A The plate would be too heavy. B The pencil would not stand upright.
C A clear shadow might not form. D The watch would stop working.

9 Why must the plate stay fixed in the same position?

- A so the plate becomes warmer B so each shadow mark can be compared fairly
C so the pencil becomes shorter D so the labels disappear

12 Which text feature most clearly shows that this is a procedure?

- A a list of materials and numbered steps B characters speaking to each other
C rhyming lines D a map with a legend

The Key in the Book · Questions 13–18

The Key in the Book

Nia was returning a pile of library books when a small brass key slid from between two pages. A faded paper label was tied to it with blue thread. The label read: WINDOW BOX.

Nia knew the library's reading room had a wide window seat. Beneath it stood a narrow wooden box with a keyhole, but Nia had always thought it was only part of the seat. She carried the key to Ms Chen at the front desk.

Ms Chen turned the key over in her hand. 'That box was here before the library was renovated,' she said. 'I have never seen it open.' For a moment, Nia hesitated. The key was old, and she wondered whether the lock might break. Ms Chen fetched a small bottle of oil and placed one careful drop in the keyhole.

The key turned with a soft click. Inside the box were hundreds of paper slips. Each slip held the title of a book and a short note from a child who had enjoyed it. The oldest note was dated 1988. Nia read three recommendations before Ms Chen laughed and reminded her that the returned books still needed shelving.

They placed a new stack of blank slips beside the box. By the end of the afternoon, five children had added recommendations of their own. The hidden box was no longer a forgotten object; it had become part of the library again.

13 Why does Nia take the key to Ms Chen?

- A She wants permission and help to investigate it. B She wants to borrow the key overnight.
C She thinks Ms Chen lost a house key. D She wants to hide it inside another book.

16 Why does Ms Chen use oil before turning the key?

- A to colour the key B to help the old lock move safely
C to clean the paper slips D to make the box heavier

14 What does hesitated mean in paragraph 3?

- A paused because she was unsure B shouted with excitement
C ran away quickly D forgot what she was holding

17 What changes by the end of the story?

- A The library closes for renovation. B The box is used again for new recommendations.
C Nia decides not to read any notes. D Ms Chen removes the window seat.

15 What was inside the wooden box?

- A old coins B children's book recommendations
C library keys D photographs of the building

18 Which idea is most important in this story?

- A Old things can become useful again. B Libraries should contain only new books.
C Keys are safer when hidden. D Shelving books is impossible work.

The School Garden Harvest · Questions 19–24

The School Garden Harvest

The Green Team weighed the vegetables picked from the school garden. On Monday, the vegetables were packed into baskets and donated to a neighbourhood food pantry.

Vegetable	Total mass	Number of baskets

C 33 kg D 39 kg

23 What does donated mean in the introduction?

- A sold for a high price B given to help others
C hidden underground D weighed a second time

21 If the tomatoes were shared equally among 8 baskets, how many kilograms were in each basket?

- A 2 kg B 3 kg
C 4 kg D 8 kg

24 Which sentence best summarises the information?

- A The garden produced several vegetables that were weighed and given away.
B The Green Team planted only pumpkins on Monday.
C Every basket had exactly the same mass.
D The food pantry returned all the vegetables.

After the Rain · Questions 25–30

After the Rain

The gutter drums a silver tune,
while clouds sail off to wake the moon.
A puddle holds the evening sky
and lets one crooked star float by.
Wet branches shine beneath the light;
each leaf has borrowed jewels tonight.
My boots make islands, dark and round,
then splash them back into the ground.
The street, so noisy in the rain,
is soft and whispering again.
I walk home slowly, just to see the shining world that waits for me.

25 Which line shows that the storm is moving away?

- A The gutter drums a silver tune B while clouds sail off to wake the moon
C My boots make islands, dark and round D I walk home slowly, just to see 28 Which pair of words rhymes?

- A light and tonight B rain and round
C see and sky D tune and ground

26 What are the borrowed jewels on the leaves?

- A small insects B drops of rain
C pieces of glass D yellow flowers

29 How does the speaker feel about the street after the rain?

- A curious and delighted B angry and frightened
C bored and impatient D sleepy and confused

27 Why does the poet say the puddle holds the evening sky?

- A The puddle reflects the sky. B The puddle is above the clouds.
C The sky has fallen to the street. D The puddle is completely dry.

30 What is the main idea of the poem?

- A Ordinary places can look new after rain. B Walking in wet weather is always dangerous.
C Night arrives before every storm. D Boots should never be worn near puddles.

Narrative Writing Task

Conventions of Language · L1–L50

L1 · B — an

Use an before the vowel sound at the start of umbrella.

L2 · C — sailed

Sailed tells what the kite did, so it is the verb.

L3 · C — carried

Yesterday shows the action happened in the past, so carried is correct.

L4 · C — quietly

Quietly describes how the class waited.

L5 · B — Ava and I planted the seeds.

The subject pronoun I is correct because Ava and the speaker performed the action.

L6 · A — because

Because gives the reason the speaker wore a hat.

L7 · A — his

His shows that the backpack belongs to Sam.

L8 · C — The puppies chase the ball.

The plural subject puppies agrees with the verb chase.

L9 · B — instruments

A violin, trumpet and drum are all musical instruments.

L10 · A — .

This calm command is a complete sentence and can end with a full stop.

L11 · C — didn't

The apostrophe in didn't replaces the missing letter o in did not.

L12 · B — After lunch, we planted seeds.

A comma separates the introductory phrase After lunch from the main clause.

L13 · C — Where did you put the keys

Where did you put the keys? asks a direct question.

L14 · B — "I found it!" called Noah.

The spoken words and exclamation mark are inside the speech marks, followed by the reporting clause.

L15 · C — On Monday, Ruby visited Canberra.

The sentence begins with a capital, and Monday, Ruby and Canberra are proper nouns.

L16 · B — dog's

The bowl belongs to one dog, so the singular possessive form is dog's.

L17 · C — Their

Their shows that the class belongs to them.

L18 · C — The tiny frog jumped into the pond.

This option has a complete subject and verb and expresses a complete idea.

L19 · B — They

They is the plural pronoun that replaces Mia and Zoe.

L20 · C — is

The main subject is singular: basket. Therefore is is correct.

L21 · B — Before we leave, please check the gate.

The introductory clause is followed by a comma.

L22 · A — children's

Children is already plural, so the possessive form is children's.

L23 · C — When will the bus arrive

This option asks a direct question.

L24 · A — "Wait for me," called Priya.

The comma belongs inside the closing speech mark before the reporting clause.

L25 · B — Neither of the boxes is empty.

The singular subject neither agrees with is.

L26 · witch

The correct spelling is witch.

L27 · because

The correct spelling is because.

L28 · friend

The correct spelling is friend: the letters are fri-e-nd.

L29 · different

The correct spelling is different, with two f's.

L30 · tomorrow

The correct spelling is tomorrow: one m and two r's.

L31 · beautiful

The correct spelling is beautiful, with one l at the end.

L32 · finally

The correct spelling is finally, with two l's.

Reading · R1–R30

R1 · A — to explain how mangroves help shores and animals

The whole text explains how mangrove roots protect the shore and provide places for animals.

R2 · A — a safe place

The roots give small animals a safe place away from larger animals and strong water.

R3 · B — They slow water and help trap soil.

Paragraph 2 says the roots slow water and trap sand and mud, helping the shore keep soil.

R4 · A — one with healthy mangrove roots

Healthy mangrove roots slow water and hold sand and mud in place.

R5 · B — small fish and crabs

The previous sentence names small fish and crabs; they are the animals that find shelter.

R6 · A — A Home Among the Roots

Paragraph 3 describes the animals that use mangrove roots and branches as habitat.

R7 · A — to make a tool that estimates time using a shadow

The steps create a sun clock that uses the pencil's shadow to estimate time.

R8 · B — Stand the pencil in adhesive at the plate's centre.

Step 2 follows choosing the place and tells the reader to stand the pencil upright.

R9 · B — so each shadow mark can be compared fairly

Moving the plate would change the shadow's position and make the hour marks unreliable.

R10 · C — not moved

Here, fixed means kept in one place without moving.

R11 · C — A clear shadow might not form.

The sun clock depends on a visible shadow, which may not form clearly under thick cloud.

R12 · A — a list of materials and numbered steps

Procedures commonly use materials and ordered steps to explain how to complete a task.

R13 · A — She wants permission and help to investigate it.

Nia connects the label with the library box and takes the key to the librarian before opening it.

R14 · A — paused because she was unsure

Nia pauses because she worries that the old lock might break.

R15 · B — children's book recommendations

The box contained paper slips naming books and explaining why children enjoyed them.

R16 · B — to help the old lock move safely

The careful drop of oil helps reduce the chance of the old lock sticking or breaking.

R17 · B — The box is used again for new recommendations.

Blank slips are added and children begin placing new recommendations in the box.

R18 · A — Old things can become useful again.

The forgotten box is rediscovered and given a useful role in the library again.

R19 · D — pumpkins

Pumpkins had a total mass of 32 kg, the greatest value in the table.

R20 · C — 33 kg

$18\text{ kg} + 15\text{ kg} = 33\text{ kg}$.

R21 · B — 3 kg

24 kg shared among 8 baskets gives 3 kg in each basket.

R22 · A — Each pumpkin basket could be much heavier.

The number of baskets does not tell their mass; each pumpkin basket could contain more kilograms.

R23 · B — given to help others

The vegetables were given to a food pantry to help people.

R24 · A — The garden produced several vegetables that were weighed and given away.

This option includes the main ideas: different vegetables were harvested, weighed and donated.

R25 · B — while clouds sail off to wake the moon

The clouds sailing off suggests the rain clouds are leaving.

R26 · B — drops of rain

Raindrops shine on the leaves like jewels under the light.

R27 · A — The puddle reflects the sky.

The surface of the water acts like a mirror and reflects the evening sky.

R28 · A — light and tonight

Light and tonight share the same ending sound.

R29 · A — curious and delighted

The speaker walks slowly to enjoy the reflections and shining details.

R30 · A — Ordinary places can look new after rain.

The poem notices how rain transforms the familiar street into a shining world.

Numeracy · N1–N30

N1 · C — 178

The pattern adds 10 each time, so $168 + 10 = 178$.

N16 · C — 1000 mL

1 litre equals 1000 millilitres.

N2 · C — 700

The 7 is in the hundreds place, so its value is 700.

N17 · B — 250 g

1 kg = 1000 g, and $1000 \text{ g} - 750 \text{ g} = 250 \text{ g}$.

N3 · C — 426 < 462

Both numbers have 4 hundreds; 2 tens is less than 6 tens, so $426 < 462$.

N18 · B — 3/8

The bar has 8 equal parts and 3 are shaded, so the fraction is $\frac{3}{8}$.

N4 · C — 423

$278 + 100 = 378$, then $+45 = 423$.

N19 · C — 23

46 shared into two equal groups gives 23 in each group.

N5 · B — 332

$600 - 200 = 400$; $400 - 68 = 332$.

N20 · D — 4

A square has vertical, horizontal and two diagonal lines of symmetry.

N6 · C — 42

6 groups of 7 is $6 \times 7 = 42$.
