Why a eraser slows down · Questions 1–6

A force is a push or a pull. When a moving eraser touches a surface, friction acts in the opposite direction to its movement. Friction makes the eraser slow down. A smooth surface such as plastic sheet usually creates less friction than wool cloth. With very little friction, an object travels farther before stopping. The amount of friction also depends on how firmly two surfaces press together. Friction is useful too: it helps shoes grip the ground and bicycle brakes stop wheels. Without enough friction, people could slip and tyres could slide. Too much friction can be unhelpful because moving parts may heat up or wear away, so machines sometimes use oil to reduce it.

1 Why a eraser slows down: What makes the moving eraser slow down?

- A sound pushing it forward B friction acting against its movement
C gravity pulling it sideways D light warming the surface

2 Why a eraser slows down: What would most likely happen if there were very little friction?

- A The eraser would travel farther before stopping. B The eraser would become heavier.
C The eraser would change colour. D The eraser would stop at once.

3 Why a eraser slows down: Mark each statement True or False.

Statement	True	False
Friction can help bicycle brakes work.	☐	☐
Wool Cloth usually creates less friction than plastic sheet.	☐	☐
Friction acts against a moving object.	☐	☐

4 Why a eraser slows down: Which surface would probably let the object travel farthest?

- A a thick towel B a rubber mat
C plastic sheet D wool cloth

5 Why a eraser slows down: Which diagram shows the applied force and friction acting in opposite directions?

- A push ↓ friction ↓ B push → ← friction
C push → friction → D push ← friction ←

6 Why a eraser slows down: Which pair of statements is correct?

- 1 The text explains how friction changes movement.
 2 The text gives examples of useful friction.
 3 The text tells a fictional adventure.

- A 1 and 2 B 1 and 3
C 2 and 3 D 3 only

Testing surfaces with a eraser · Questions 7–12

This experiment compares how far the same eraser travels across plastic sheet, paper and wool cloth. Use the same ramp each time.

- Place the ramp at the marked height.
- Put plastic sheet at the bottom of the ramp.
- Release the eraser without pushing it.
- Measure and record the distance travelled.
- Repeat the trial 4 times for each surface, then compare the results.

7 Testing surfaces with a eraser: Number these steps from 1 to 4.

- ___ Put plastic sheet at the bottom of the ramp.
 ___ Measure and record the distance travelled.
 ___ Place the ramp at the marked height.
 ___ Release the eraser without pushing it.

8 Testing surfaces with a eraser: How many times is each surface tested?

- A 12 B 4
C 3 D 5

9 Testing surfaces with a eraser: What type of text is this?

- A a procedure B a narrative
C a book review D a poem

10 Testing surfaces with a eraser: Why are several surfaces tested?

- A to make the ramp taller each time B to change the size of the object
C to avoid measuring any result D to compare how each surface affects the distance

11 Testing surfaces with a eraser: Which material would be the best replacement for wool cloth?

- A smooth foil B polished plastic
C a woollen mat D a glass sheet

12 Testing surfaces with a eraser: Using both texts, where should the eraser travel the shortest distance?

- A on no surface B wool cloth
C plastic sheet D in the air

Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness · Questions 13–18

During a health lesson at the market, Zoe's class learned that a sedentary person spends long periods sitting and moving very little. Regular activity helps the heart, muscles and joints. Aerobic activities such as cycling make the heart beat faster. Strength activities such as push-ups make muscles work against resistance. Flexibility activities such as gentle bends help joints move through a comfortable range. Each type has a different purpose, so doing only one type leaves out other benefits. Children can build activity into ordinary days by walking, playing active games and helping with safe physical jobs. Activity should suit the person's ability and surroundings. A balanced week includes all three kinds, water, sleep and time to rest.

- 13 Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness: What does sedentary mean in this text?
A spending much time sitting and moving very little B training for a race every day
C moving safely in deep water D stretching every muscle
- 14 Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness: Match each fitness type to its description.
aerobic ____ strength ____ flexibility ____
A helps joints move comfortably B makes the heart beat faster C makes muscles work against resistance
- 15 Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness: Which activity is aerobic?
A gentle bends B sitting quietly
C cycling D push-ups
- 16 Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness: Complete the sentence using two words from the box.
A balanced week includes ____ activity and time to ____.
- Word box: regular • rest • sedentary • resistance • range
- 17 Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness: Which statement is most likely true of a fit person?
A They can use heart, muscles and joints in different activities. B They never need to rest.
C They do only one kind of activity. D They sit still for most of every day.
- 18 Zoe's guide to three kinds of fitness: What is the main message of the text?
A Only competitive sport improves fitness. B Rest should replace all exercise.
C Muscles are the only part of fitness. D Different kinds of activity help the body in different ways.

C to report a sporting result D to list rules for a classroom

Review: Night Creatures · Questions 30–34

Night Creatures by Sofia King

This information book contains surprising facts, labelled pictures and short explanations. Its chapters move from simple examples to less familiar ones. The opening chapter gives readers enough background to understand the later examples. The captions make the pictures easy to understand, and small fact boxes add details without interrupting the main explanation. The index is useful for finding a topic again. Some pages use words that younger readers may need to look up, and the final chapter feels too short. Even so, curious readers will probably return to the pictures and facts more than once. Rating: ★★☆☆☆

30 Review: Night Creatures: Who wrote the book being reviewed?

- A Zoe Lee B Isla Jones
C The reviewer D Sofia King

31 Review: Night Creatures: What is the main purpose of the review?

- A to sell equipment B to teach a science experiment
C to give information and an opinion about the book D to retell every chapter

32 Review: Night Creatures: Which two topics are not included in the book?

- ☐ surprising facts ☐ a recipe ☐ labelled pictures
☐ chapter headings ☐ a fictional diary ☐ short explanations

33 Review: Night Creatures: What criticism does the reviewer make?

- A Some words are difficult and the final chapter is too short. B The book has no pictures.
C Every chapter repeats the same page. D The title is missing.

34 Review: Night Creatures: What does the star rating show?

- A The book has five authors. B The book contains five chapters.
C The reviewer read it five times. D The reviewer gives the book 4 out of 5.

Zoe's story: The unexpected parcel · Questions 35–39

Zoe carried a heavy box into the market. A loose corner caught on the doorway, and three dusty folders slid onto the floor. While stacking them, Zoe noticed a small compass beneath the lowest folder. It was labelled with Isla's name. Zoe remembered seeing Isla earlier, but could not remember which group had left first. Calling across the crowded room would only interrupt everyone. Zoe wanted to return it at once, but the crowded room made the search difficult. Instead of guessing, Zoe placed the object safely on the desk and asked the supervisor to check the visitor list. The supervisor found a contact note and sent a short message. Soon Isla returned, relieved to see the missing object. The unpleasant job of moving the box had led to a welcome surprise.

35 Zoe's story: The unexpected parcel: Match each describing word to the noun it describes.

heavy ____ dusty ____ crowded ____

A room B box C folders

36 Zoe's story: The unexpected parcel: Number these events from 1 to 4.

____ The supervisor checked the visitor list.

____ The box caught on the doorway.

____ Isla returned for the object.

____ Zoe found the small compass.

37 Zoe's story: The unexpected parcel: Which word best describes Zoe?

A responsible B careless

C selfish D impatient

38 Zoe's story: The unexpected parcel: Why was it difficult for Zoe to return the object immediately?

A The object was too large to lift. B The supervisor refused to help.

C The visitor list had been destroyed. D The room was crowded and the owner was not easy to find.

39 Zoe's story: The unexpected parcel: Why is The unexpected parcel a suitable title?

A The characters compete in a race. B The story is mainly about bad weather.

C An inconvenient task leads to an unexpected discovery. D The story explains how to build a box.

The toy that came to life
